(June 20th, 2024) - Matt Champion unveils an immersive visual world around his debut album Mika's Laundry, with a live performance video featuring songs from the album. Alongside frequent collaborator Anna Pollack, Champion shares live renditions of "Purify," "Aren't You Excited," and "Meetin' You." The video reveals Matt in a dark room that feels both intimate and expansive, perfectly capturing the album's themes of life, love, and existentialism.

Following the acclaim of his highly-reviewed album, Matt is set to deliver an intimate live performance at the Eid Cid in Los Angeles, marking his first time performing the album live. Tickets go on sale tomorrow at TIME and can be purchased HERE. The album has secured widespread recognition again recently on Mid-Year Best of Lists, including UPROXX, ELLE, and Paste Magazine.

Mika's Laundry represents a defining shift in Matt's sound with his return to solo music, taking his time to mold new ideas over the course of several years and craft a singular body of work that many may not have expected. At the album's core, Matt writes thoughtfully about the complexities of his relationships and asks the existential questions that come with growing up and discovering your place amongst your peers. Matt co-produced the album alongside Henry Kwapis, Dijon, and a handful of other close collaborators, warping his voice to complement the textures of the music.
